

THE EASTERN COYOTE: A TRUE SURVIVOR (UPDATE!)

Presentation by Dominic Noce and Noah Keller Interns at Parker River National Wildlife Refuge

The coyote is one of the most misunderstood and persecuted animals in North America. Over the past year, refuge interns Dominic Noce and Noah Keller have continued studying the coyote population on Plum Island using camera traps – a technology that demonstrates that these are intelligent and emotionally complex animals. Dom and Noah will give a presentation on the general behavior and biology of the eastern coyote, as well as behaviors noticed in the pack living at the northern portion of the refuge. Spaces in the refuge's 85-seat auditorium will be filled on a first come, first served basis. NO preregistration for this program.

August 7, 2018, Tuesday, 7:00 - 8:00 p.m.
Visitor Center Auditorium Parker River NWR Headquarters
6 Plum Island Turnpike, Newburyport, MA 01950

