

NOVEMBER 10, 2020, 7:00PM DUCKS OF NEW ENGLAND

Presented by Bill Gette

By early November, large numbers of ducks migrate from their breeding areas in northern New England and Canada and move to area lakes, rivers, salt marshes, and coastal waters. During this PowerPoint presentation, Bill Gette will discuss the field marks and behavioral characteristics that are key to duck identification. Bill will discuss plumages and habitat preferences, and tell you where to go to find the many species that overwinter on the Parker River National Wildlife Refuge and other sites within an hour's drive of Newburyport.

Bill Gette, current President of the Friends of Parker River NWR, began leading travel programs for Mass Audubon in 1986. He joined Mass Audubon full-time in 1996 as the Founding Director of the Joppa Flats Education Center, developing and leading several rigorous bird-related certification programs both here and in Belize. Bill retired from Mass Audubon in February 2016 but remains very active, leading natural history travel programs and lecturing.
